Learn about the Denver Police Explorer Post and see if you have what it takes to be one of our newest Explorers

The Denver Police Explorer Post is a partnership through Learning for Life and the Denver Police Department. The objective of this program is for young men and women to begin a foundation of becoming good citizens with a background in law enforcement by learning Honor, Integrity, Leadership, Service and Discipline

Explorers will work closely with members from the Denver Police Department, Denver Sheriffs Department and many other law enforcement agencies. Participants will undergo classroom lectures coupled with hands on practical exercises to demonstrate knowledge and proficiency. While training can be rigorous, many Explorers find that they leave our post with many of the skills to be good people, citizens and employees in any field while making lifelong friendships.

However, those individuals that are dedicated to the program find that they have an advantage in obtaining employment with departments. In fact, many of our previous explorers have been hired onto the Denver Police Department and have had successful careers while promoting within our organization. Other Explorers have found employment with other jurisdiction's police or sheriff's departments.

Through service, we learn to help others and develop who we are as Police Explorers.
